

Your Feedback Needed! Help Co-Create the Future of the Dry Farming Institute

Greetings!

The Dry Farming Institute (DFI) is seeking your input on our strategic growth and development to support dry farming and other water resilience strategies. Please take this 12 minute survey and help inform our growth and development to better serve you and our community.

This survey is for farmers, farm workers, homesteaders/gardeners, seedkeepers, land tenders, educators, researchers and agricultural service providers. Results will remain confidential and you have the choice to make your comments anonymously if you so choose. Aggregate results will be shared with the DFI board and partners. For questions or concerns, please reach out to Amy Garrett at amy@dryfarming.org.

Respondents who opt in to share their contact information (name, email, mailing address) will be entered into a drawing for a $250 cash card to be sent via email and the first 20 respondents will also receive a printed copy of the Dry Farming Zine in the mail. We really appreciate your time & input as we co-create our plan to continue our work together in empowering growers to thrive with less water.

Take DFI Survey

Our Vision: to empower growers to thrive with less water
Our Values transparency, communication, innovation, and collaboration.

Our Work

There's no one-size-fits-all solution to water resilience. That's why we lead with curiosity, flexibility, and deep collaboration. DFI works alongside growers, agricultural advisors, and researchers to try new things, explore possibilities, and co-create place-based strategies grounded in lived experience.

Learn more about our approach and current work.

Garland making with marigolds at Tel-Tvm' during Water Resilience Demo Tour in 2024 - photo by Katrina Hudson

Thank you from our DFI Board and staff:
Lucas, Eliza, Kristin, Cathy, John & Amy

Dry Farming Institute

Dry Farming Institute

dryfarming.org

Contact Us

The Dry Farming Institute | P.O. Box 2558 | Corvallis, OR 97339 US

Unsubscribe | Update Profile | Constant Contact Data Notice

Try email marketing for free today!